

PURPOSE: To reduce the required wellness hours for fourth-nine weeks seniors from 15 hours to 7.5 hours.

INTRODUCED BY: Gracyn Young

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MISSISSIPPI SCHOOL FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE SENATE:

SECTION ONE (REASONING):

During the final semester of senior year, seniors are preparing for graduation and finalizing college plans. Amidst these significant transitions, it remains imperative that seniors fulfill all wellness requirements as stipulated by the academic curriculum. The attainment of wellness grades contributes to the allocation of privilege plans. It is acknowledged that the transition beyond graduation marks the ending privilege plans, therefore, fourth nine-weeks seniors should be given more independence regarding the structure and grading system of privilege plans. Given this context, fourth nine-week seniors are provided with the option to determine their level of engagement with the prescribed fifteen hours of wellness activities, while still requiring them to participate in seven and a half hours of wellness hours and wellness seminars for their final grade. This approach aims to acknowledge the priorities and commitments of graduating seniors while ensuring the integrity of the wellness grading system.

SECTION TWO (APPENDIX):

Response 1 (Anonymous):

As a second-semester senior myself, I find that I am often extremely busy making sure that I have not only fulfilled my duties as an MSMS student but also dealing with college prep. I think that this resolution would allow for us seniors to have more time to make sure our affairs are in order, and potentially help with senioritis. I find that because I won't be receiving anything because of these grades, I feel less inclined to do them, but I feel as if this offers us seniors not only a compromise, but also, somewhat of a reward for finishing out our time at MSMS.

Response 2 (Anonymous):

I think this is a great idea giving the last nine weeks isn't doing anything for the seniors besides another letter on our report card. So reducing wellness seems like a great idea!

Response 3 (Anonymous):

I think reducing the amount for the fourth nine weeks is an excellent idea because we are already swamped with getting ready for college and reducing the amount of hours we need would help us even out the amount of things we have to do in our final nine weeks of school.

Response 4 (Anonymous):

As a current senior I believe there are more important things for me to be focusing on during this time, so I did not even plan on doing wellness since the grade will not affect things like my privilege plan. The lowering of hours makes sense for fourth nine-week seniors since they have likely already shown a clear commitment to wellness and deserve a break.

SECTION THREE (PROPOSED ACTION):

To lower the wellness hour requirements for fourth nine-week seniors from 15 to 7.5
