

PURPOSE: To state that room inspections be cancelled on a certain wing if they haven't begun on that wing by 10:50 p.m.

INTRODUCED BY: Senator Jha

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MISSISSIPPI SCHOOL FOR MATHEMATICS AND SCIENCE SENATE:

SECTION ONE (REASONING):

Residents shouldn't have to worry about room inspections if their RAs haven't completed them by 10:50. Room inspections involve turning on the lights and moving closet doors, this will disturb people who are trying to go to sleep. There is no reason to compromise a student's sleep schedule when room inspections can easily be scheduled for another night.

SECTION TWO (PROPOSED ACTION):

Room inspections may be rescheduled for a certain wing if they haven't begun on that wing by 10:50 p.m.

SECTION THREE (APPENDIX):

Response 1 (Anonymous): "There have been multiple instances where we didn't have room inspections until 11 p.m. This doesn't work for me and my suitemate because we typically shower after room check and go to bed around 11:00. We can't do that now because we must wait for room inspections to be completed before we can shower."

Response 2 (Anonymous): "I think this is a great idea because I'm a light sleeper, and once I wake up it's difficult for me to fall back asleep. It's not like the dorms will fall into chaos if room inspections are delayed one night."

Response 3 (Anonymous): "I don't understand why this isn't already a rule, because this is what our RA does if she hasn't done room inspections on time. It doesn't seem fair that other wings should stay up later because their RA isn't as sympathetic towards their schedule."
